

COOL IS AS CERTAIN AS GERMAN VICTORY

But Reichstag Socialist Does Not Think Submarine War Will Starve England.

STRIKE PROLONGED BY U. S.

By the Associated Press.
STOCKHOLM, via London, March 27, 6:15 a.m.—Dr. Albert O. W. Suedekum, one of the best known leaders of the majority socialists in the Reichstag, in an interview here with the correspondent of the Associated Press, said that whoever thought the submarine war was going to bring England to starvation in six months was deceiving himself. He added, however, that such a result was not necessary for German victory, which he declared was certain, with indemnity.

Dr. Suedekum said he was convinced that England hitherto had been sending only enough troops to the continent to keep her allies contented, but that now it was necessary for her to change her course. He declared to have a prediction on the result of the possible participation of America in the war on the side of the entente, but added: "Anyhow, America has been virtually in the war practically since the beginning of it. It had not been for the armistice the war would have ended in 1915."

No Danger of Food Shortage.

In reference to a statement attributed to former Ambassador Gerard that the food situation might affect Germany's military strength, Dr. Suedekum said:

"There is not the slightest danger of that, even in the improbable event of the war lasting a year or two more. If other foods fail we can increase our meat rations. We have 17,000,000 swine today and the normal number before the war was only about 15,750,000. We have about 7,500,000 cattle, against a peace normal of about 1,000,000 or 1,500,000 more. If necessary we could butcher all but a minimum number of brood animals.

"The extreme cold of the last weeks made it impossible to transport potatoes and we had only one or two pounds weekly for each consumer in the big cities. If the people had been required by regulation thus to limit consumption they would have considered it impossible, but when faced by hard necessity they did it with the result that we have an additional month's supply of potatoes on which we never reckoned. It is true we are short of food, but we are not starving."

Talks of Split in Socialist Ranks.

In regard to the split in the socialist party Dr. Suedekum said:

"The small minority which broke away from the old party is merely a sort of safety valve for blowing off the pressure of discontent. There is bound to be a certain number of disgruntled individuals and malcontents in every party, even in normal times and naturally much more so in time of war. These people must have an outlet for their discontent and the seceding socialists furnish this outlet. The secession movement is of no consequence, the seceders themselves being split into various groups. I predict these divisions will disappear with the coming of peace."

Once Lectured in U. S.

Dr. Suedekum is recognized as an expert on municipal problems and is well known in the United States, where he delivered a series of lectures in 1910. At the outbreak of the war he went to Italy to try to persuade the Italian socialists to support Italian intervention on the side of Germany. Later he was decorated with the Iron Cross for his services at the front.

COL. CHAILLE-LONG TO BE BURIED TOMORROW

Funeral to Be Held From Undertaker's Chapel and Interment Is to Be in Arlington.

COL. CHAILLE-LONG.

Funeral services for Col. Charles Chaille-Long, soldier, explorer, diplomat, author and for many years a writer for The Star, who died Saturday at Virginia Beach, are to be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the undertaker's chapel, 1720 Pennsylvania avenue, with Rev. W. Taylor Snyder, rector of the Church of the Incarnation, officiating. Interment is to be in Arlington national cemetery.

Col. Chaille-Long had a romantic career and his experiences covered a wide range. He was a civil war veteran, having enlisted in the 1st Maryland United States Volunteers in 1862, not long after he had graduated from Washington Academy. At the close of the war he engaged in literary studies for several years. He was the recipient of many decorations from various governments for distinguished services, among which were the Legion of Honor from the French government and a medal from the general assembly of the state of Maryland in 1904 for his services to science. This medal bears on one side the following inscription: "To Col. Charles Chaille-Long in testimony for his services and his valiant conduct in central Africa and Egypt." He also received letters of thanks from the American Geographical Society of New York and the Maryland Historical Society for the final solution of the source of the Nile.

APPEAL FOR CO-OPERATION IN THE NATION'S DEFENSE

Unification of Preparedness Movements Urged as Best Means of Meeting Crisis.

To aid recruiting and industrial mobilization a working agreement has been effected between the national committee of patriotic and defense societies, representing twenty-eight important organizations, and the national defense council, and the following appeal for the unification of preparedness movements has been issued to the country:

"In the face of the impending break," says the appeal, "patriotic men and women the country over are eagerly seeking an opportunity to be of service. Preparedness and relief societies are springing up everywhere, with the result that purposes are becoming confused and efforts constantly duplicated.

Urged to Join Existing Societies.
"The committee appeals to patriotic citizens to join one of the existing societies rather than to organize new ones. It points out that preparedness means efficiency, and efficiency is secured by eliminating useless efforts. The committee is in touch with the governors of all the states and is urging upon them the necessity of having all proposed state military censuses uniform in regard to information concerned, so that they may be of real value to the War Department."

Organizations Included.
The societies represented in the committee include the Aeronautic Society of America, the American Defense Society, the Army League, the Boy Scouts of America, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Military Training Camp Association, the National Association for Universal Military Training, the National Civic Federation, the National Security League, the Naval and Military Order of Spanish-American War Veterans, the Navy League and the Universal Military Training League.

Boy Scout Band Rehearsal.
The first of a special series of band rehearsals will be held tonight at 6 o'clock in G. A. R. Hall by the Washington Boy Scout Band to prepare for the first annual band entertainment to be held about the middle of April.
